

Connecting in Philadelphia

Support for Singles: 30's, 40's, 50's

Ruth Harvey, the author of Connecting in Philadelphia, is offering a creative way for singles to meet together with the goal of supporting one another through the odyssey experience of 'Dating 2005'. Although there is a basic structure, each group of twelve (6 men and 6 women) will determine the group's direction, including optional activities outside of the group meetings with Ruth.

The first meeting will be at a restaurant and Ruth will review her book and participants will decide possible topics for discussion for future groups. Seating at the restaurant will shift so participants will be able to talk informally to most members during this first evening. You are encouraged to become familiar with the book and to bring ideas to the first meeting.

Ruth is a psychologist with 30 years of experience. She is a lively group leader and has been leading groups for singles of all ages since 1981. She believes that enduring relationships are more likely to develop when people are doing what they love.

Dates: We are presently preparing to begin a group April through June 2005 that will meet six times on a weekday evening. The age group will be decided by the largest number of applicants. We are also planning to do summer and fall groups. Groups will be divided into 30's plus or minus a few years, 40's + or -, and 50's + or -. Group size is limited to 12, so it is recommended that you send in the application ASAP.

Fee: 6 weeks $240 for the group. Participants pay for all outside activities. Please do not send any payment now; payment information will be sent later.

(Please let us know if you are interested in other age, or gay and lesbian groups.)

Please return application to FPTCenter, 6811 Quincy Street, Philadelphia, PA 19119
Please do not include any payment now; payment information will be sent later.
